

Position Title: Integration Engineer

Position Type: Full-Time

Position Description

Doppio is the leading software integration provider for global manufacturing and distribution organizations running Infor M3. Doppio is transforming the way businesses communicate. Doppio provides integration services and scalable communication methods improving business-to-business transactions. The Integration engineer supports development of Doppio's innovative solutions and will work on the flagship cloud based product Orderful, which enables organizations to trade EDI (Electronic Data Interchange) transactions over the cloud.

Main Responsibilities

- Work with solution architect & customers to identify requirements and objectives for integration
- Design, implement and maintain software components in the Cloud to enable integrations between different organizations
- Develop scalable software components in an effort to reduce costs and improve business
- Develop technical documentation
- Work closely with Doppio implementation & product team to provide functional expertise, technical expertise & support to the client

Requirements

- Java, Javascript, Nodejs
- XML, XSD, XPath
- SQL & Relational Database Management
- RESTful APIs, Web Services, JSON
- Computer Network basics
- Excellent communication skills
- Bachelor's or Master's degree in Computer Science / Software Engineering

Wish list in this candidate

- ERP Integration experience
- EDI or some proprietary form of business communication
- X12, EDIFACT, cXML, RosettaNet
- Understanding of SaaS model
- AWS Knowledge
- The ideal candidate is someone who is self-motivated and excited to learn

Compensation

The integration engineer position is for full-time salary employment. Doppio pays a competitive market salary. Doppio is an equal opportunity employer. Doppio will provide a working space and a computer.

Job Function

Software Development

Location

San Francisco, California United States